If he does not, the question will be referred to the Attorney General as to whether he can legally be detailed for that duty. The law directs that the superintendent of public buildings and grounds shall be an officer of the engineer corps detailed for the duty by the chief of that corps. Col. Casey, it will be remembered, was put in that position under President Hayes, and retained it until Col. Rockwell's eligibility for the position. He is not an officer of engineers, but of the quartermaster's department. The question as to Col. Rockwell's eligibility was much discussed in the War department, especially in the office of the chief of engineers. partment, especially in the office of the chief of engineers. A reference to the Attorney General was asked, but was not had. The question was referred to the Judge Advocate, Gen. Swaim. In giving his opinion Gen. Swaim took for his In giving his opinion Gen. Swaim took for his cornerstone that Col. Rockwell could be appointed under a clause in an appropriation bill subsequent to the act, which directed the detail to be made from the engineer corps. Until that clause was inserted the engineer officer detailed for the position only drew the pay of his regular rank, and only had the title to which that rank in the army entitled him. Subsequently one of the appropriation bills enacted that the officer holding the position of superintendent of public buildings and grounds should be entitled to the rank and pay of a colonel in the army. There was no reference in it to the provision that such officer should be of the engineer corps. Gen. Swaim took the ground that the absence Gen. Swaim took the ground that the absence of such stipulation vitiated the obligation that an engineer officer should be appointed. Upon this construction of the law Col. Rockwell was appointed, relieving Col. Casey of all his duties except those pertaining to the charge of the new State, War and Navy building and the Washington monument. Officers of the army, especially of the engineer corps, have never especially of the engineer corps, have never acquiesced in this disposition of the case. If Col. Rockwell does not, as is expected, resign, the question of his eligibility will, it is said, be referred to the Attorney General for decision.

ALLEGED PLOT TO ASSASSINATE PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

What Two Men Were Heard to Say.

A sworn statement was yesterday filed in the police department by a Mr. Bayley, who is an attache of the Army Medical Museum, Surgeon General's department, to the effect that about midnight last Monday night, while in his room in the house No. 461 Missouri avenue, he overheard two men talking of a plot to assassinate President Arthur; that he (Bayley) waslying in his bed, which was against the front window, and the window blinds were closed; that two men stopped on the sidewalk near a tree box, and one asked the other. "Will you swear to it?" The latter replied, "Yes, I will. He swore that he would kill the President in one month.' The one who said this remarked that the man referred to, but who was not named, was a "Garfield republican." Mr. Bayley threw open the blinds and the two men walked hur-riedly away. Bayley saw them and could, he thinks, identify them. There may not have been any special meaning in the conversation, but the chief clerk of Bayley's division advised him to report the matter to the chief of police. The police authorities have not made any arrests yet, but they have observed some vigilance as to the President, thinking it wise to take that precaution. Mr. Bayley is a young man, and nephew of Hon. S. P. Bayley, of Alexandria, who was the republican candidate for Congress in that district last year. district last year.

The Star Route Cases.

A VIGOROUS PROSECUTION OF THEM TO MADE. Ex-District Attorney George Bliss, of New

York, will have the management of the star route cases which will come before the grand jury now within a few days. It is stated, by those connected with the prosecution, that the evidence in some of the cases is all arranged and ready for presentation. It is urged in some quarters that the term of Postmaster General James will expire by limitation on the 19th of next month, under the law providing that the term of the Postmaster General shall be for and during the term of the President by whom he was appointed and one month over. Those who take this view maintain that President Garfield's term of office ended with his death. Ex-District Attorney Bliss takes this view of the question as do other lawyers. But should it be determined that this is the proper construction of the law, it is stated in high official circles that the President will re-amount Control laws the determined that the President will re-amount Control laws to the circles that the president will re-amount Control laws to the circles that the president will re-amount Control laws to the circles that the president will re-amount Control laws to the circles that the president will re-amount Control laws to the circles that the president will re-amount the circles that the president will be controlled the circles that the president will be controlled to the circles that the president will be controlled to the circles that the president will be controlled to the circles that the president will be controlled to the circles that the president will be controlled to the circles that the president will be controlled to the circles that the president will be circles the circles that the president will be circles the circles that the president will dent will re-appoint General James to hold office until the star route cases shall have been disposed of. There is no doubt but that the prosecution mean to push things from now on. It is claimed that the disabled condition of President Garfield prevented the prosecutors from making any progress during the summer, except in the way of collecting and preparing evidence. The President, it is said, has expressed the wish that the cases shall be pressed for trial, and that nothing shall be spared to convict accessed. ment he has saved to the government the amount of $1,600,000, most of which was saved by cutting down the enormous expenses of the star route system; and the records show that not more than fifty complaints of the man who was universally esteemed for his pure character and statesmanship should have been assassinated, the following allusion to the "life of man" is interesting: "If the general education of the people advances the external ma-terial interests of man, much more will it advance man himself in his physical, so-cial and moral nature. In other ages it was believed that the life of man was influenced mainly by forces beyond his con-trol; by a multitude of gods and other unseen agencies. But the progress of science has developed the fact that the universe is governed by general and comprehensive laws—laws which pervade not only the material and inorganic world, but also the world of organic life and of human activity." Whatever may be said of the party platform upon which President Garfield stood, all men must honor his opinion as to the duties of a national ruler when he says: "Rulers must choose two conditions. Without education the citizens of a nation will be ignorant, indolent vicious and turbulent. indolent, victous and turbulent. With educa-tion they will become more enlightened, industion they will become more enlightened, industrious, virtuous and peaceable." The paper from which the foregoing quotations are made was very complete and exhaustive, and yet Gen. Garfield offered an apology for what he considered its unsatisfactory character.

In speaking of western Europe and America he said that they had regard

In November of last year the writer of this notice received a letter from Scotland, written by Mr. Amano Koziro, who had for several years here an attack of the Javanese legition in

A ROYAL VISITOR King Kalakaua in Washington.

BRIEF VISIT TO THE CAPITAL-HE CALLS ON THE

The name of Kalakaua Rex, his olive-tinted majesty of the Sandwich Islands, adorns the register at the Arlington. The royal party arrived last evening, and were quartered in a handsome suite of rooms in the old Johnson mansion, which forms a wing of the hotel. The king's suite comprises his High Chamberlain, Col. C. H. Judd; his Attorney General, Wm. N. Armstrong, and Hon. Elisha Allen, the Hawaiian minister to the United States, and Col. G. W. MacFarlane, aide-de-camp to the king. The jolly, good-natured face of King Kalakana is familiar to the people of this city, who remember him when he made a more extended visit here in 1874. The hand of time spares neither king nor plebian, and the effects of riper years may be seen in the king's more rotund figure, though his face is still fresh, and he looks as though he might reign for a quarter of a century yet before he retires permanently from the business. He is five feet eleven inches in height, weighs 230 pounds, and is in his 46th year. His complexion is tinted rived last evening, and were quartered in a handis in his 46th year. His complexion is tinted brown, his hair black and curly and he wears a moustache, goatee and side whiskers. He dresses in plain black, and wears a plug hat, a boiled shirt, besides displaying other emblems of continental civilization. The king, when he was here before conviced. here before, occupied a suite of apartments in the other wing of the hotel, and desired to have the same rooms during his present visit, but as they were occupied, the Johnson mansion was tendered for his occupancy. He is entirely separated from the other guests, having his own private dining-room. To-day was spent quietly by the royal party, the only event of interest being the call on the President at

A DIPLOMATIC CONFERENCE. This morning the Chinese minister and a member of his legation called in full Celestial regalia on his majesty and held a long conference with him and Minister Allen in relation, it is understood, to the subject of Chinese immigration. There was some rumor about the hotel that the Emperor of China entertained a notion of buy-ing up the Sandwich Islands and annexing King Kalakaua's establishment to the flowery king-dom, but no foundation could be found for such a story. In fact, when a STAR reporter questioned Grand Chamberlain Judd in reference to the matter that official with a dignified em-phasis declared that the kingdom was not for

THE KING AND THE REPORTERS. The king is not accessible to the ordinary plebian reporter. Not that he buts on airs on account of his title and his royal authority over 60,000 subjects—including native Kanakas, Chinese and white trash—but the rush of reporters, ambitious to interview a real live monarch is so great that some means have to be taken for the protection of the royal stranger. Grand High Chamberlain Judd therefore acts as spokesman for his royalty. The high chamberlain's other title is colonel. Colonels, majors and judges abound luxuriantly in the soft climate of Tahiti. where claret punches and mint juleps are eternally in season. When a STAR reporter inquired, with some trepidation at the clerk's desk at the Arlington this morning if the king was in, Col. Judd happened to be at the counter, and with a frank courtesy and a noble bearing, due to his long association with royalty, he took up the reporter's question, saying that his majesty was in. Could he be seen? No; he could not be dis-turbed. There had been, during his trip around THE CHRISTIANCY DIVORCE CASE.—Examiner

"I remember when one came down to my vessel and asked if something had happened. I simply said 'yes,' and he went off. The next morning there appeared an interview with me in the paper a column long." Here the naval officer let off a brilliant series of profane pyrotecnichs, regarding reporters in general. "We are to call upon the President soon," continued Col. Judd, when the tornado of profanity had blown over. "There will be none except ourselves in the party. This evening we will go to Baltimore, and take a boat for Hampton. From Hampton we will go to Lexington, Ky., thence to Omaha, stopping a day at each place and then to San stopping a day at each place and then to Sai 'It has been printed," said the reporter, "that they had to modify the thing considerably-his majesty, having been raised in a straight-laced methodist fashion." The naval officer winked. Colonel Judd winked in a dignified way, as becomes a high chamberlain. "Methodist!" exploded the naval officer, like a torpedo; "Methodist!" echoed Colonel Judd; "Methodist!" shouted the naval officer again. "You should have seen him down there at the hooley-hoos at Honolulu. Methodist!" and he went off into a series of chuckles which were in-terpreted by the reporter as meaning that not much reliance could be placed in the utterances of the Paris press In further conversation Col. Judd said that Kalakaua was the only crowned head who had made the tour of the world. The read who had made the tour of the world. The entire trip had so far occupied nine months, and would not be completed until they reached San Francisco, the point whence they started. There was no truth in the report that his majesty wanted to sell his kingdom. He spoke of the delightful climate of the islands, the thermometer agreement that they are read to the control of the spoke of the delightful climate of the islands, the thermometer agreement that they are read to the control of the spoke of the delightful climate of the spoke mometer averaging about 69° all the year round and there being many inducements for immigrants of a good character, in which the kingdom stood in much need. The object of the visit to Kentucky is to see the blooded horses, in which the king is much interested. THE DEPARTURE FOR THE PRESIDENT'S. A little before noon two carriages were driven up to the hotel to take the royal party to the up to the hotel to take the royal party to the President's house. They were livery stable carriages, drawn by prancing chargers, driven by sable charioteers, who had had an extra polish put on their shiny hats, and the missing buttons hastily replaced on their gorgeous livery for the occasion. When his Polynesian majesty came forth through the corridor of the hotel a curious crowd was assembled to see him off. His majesty, who wore a high white hat, and a Prince Albert coat, and Minister Allen, took seats in the first carriage, and the jehu having given a plebian crack to his whip and a broad republican grin to the small crowd on the curb, royalty was driven rapidly off. Attorney General Armstrong and two young gentleman from the State department occupied the second carriage. Col. Judd left before the royal party, having some banking business to transact for the king. Col. Judd looks very much like Kalakaua, except that he wears a moustache simply. He was born in the islands, of New York parentage, but is burned as brown as a nut. Attorney General Armstrong also resembles the king somewhat. Each of these gentlemen wears in his coat lappel a little red and blue button, the insignia of the orders of Kamekameha and Kalakaua. The latter name, scording to the highest Polynesian authority, is pronounced Kal-ah-kah-oo-ah. Attorney General Armstrong was born in the Sandwich Islands, of American parentage, and came to this country when he was fifteen years of age and practiced law. Upon the accession of Kalakaua he returned to the islands. He is a brother of Gen. Armstrong, president of the Hampton Normal College, which the king will visit to-norrow. After the call upon the President, the king's party returned to the hotel to dine. They expected this afternoon to leave for Baltimore at 5.40 p.m. President's house. They were livery stable car-

Shipwreck on the Pacific Coast. A PANIC ON BOARD AND TEN LIVES LOST.

TWO CENTS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—The name of the ship reported lost last night was not the Halensburg, but the Alice Buck, from New York. A dispatch from Spanish Town, 25 miles from here, says she struck on Hovian's rocks, two miles below, at ten minutes past 12 o'clock yesterday morning, and is a total wreck. Ten out of 24 men on heard wornders and the struck of the ship had been m n on board were drowned. The ship had been leaking for two days, and the captain signalled for a tug, evidently intending to put into San Francisco for repairs. On Monday he spoke the steamer Oceanic and got his course to San Francisco, but by some miscalculation steered northeast, and shortly after midnight struck with an awful crash on the rocks not over fifteen hundred test from a bit blef. not over fifteen hundred teet from a high bluff. The two mates and part of the crew were instantly panie stricken and jumped from the ship into the sea and were not seen again. > An Interesting Discovery in the Malley Trial.
> New Haven, Sept. 28.—An interesting discovery was made at the trial of the Malleys for murder to-day. On the Brandford Point Hotel register was exhibited the name of Cramer, of date August 5th. The counsel for defence claimed it must have been put there recently. King, the clerk, had never noticed it before. The record showed that Walter Malley was there with Miss Douglass July 30th. This record had been eraced or rewritten under date of July 31st. The clerk had spokhn to Walter about the change. The entry showed that Walter and Miss Douglas had supper at the hotel Friday, August 5th. Witnesses to-day testified to seeing them on the road thither, and one witness on their return to New Haven in the evening, near 10 o'clock.

HIS DISTINGUISHED VISITORS TO-DAY-KING KALAKAUA AMONG THE CALLERS. The movements of President Arthur to-day have been uneventful. Callers dropped in about 10 o'clock. Soon after 11 o'clock Attorney General MacVeagh called and was closeted with the President on public matters for some time. The conference was interrupted at noon by the arrival of King Kalakaua, of the Sandwich Islands. The king was accompanied by Minister Allen, the Hawalian minister; Assistant Secretary of State Hitt, General Armstrong and one or two members of his staff. He was at once escorted by Mr. Hitt to the President's room and the President and the king were presented. There by Mr. Hitt to the President's room and the President and the king were presented. There was no ceremony of any kind. The President cordially shook the king's hand and engaged him in conversation for a short time. Those in the room, in addition to the party who came with the king, were Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, and Attorney General MacVeagh. After a brief interview the king left in company with Minisinterview the king left in company with Minis-ter Allen.

The President is now ready to transact public business at his rooms on Capitol Hill. There is a telephone in the house which can be connected with all the executive departments. CITY AND DISTRICT Guiteau's Trial in this District.

WHAT COLONEL W. A. COOK SAYS ABOUT IT. Meeting Colonel W. A Cook this morning a STAR reporter asked him: "Colonel, what do you think of the question as to trying Guiteau here?" Colonel Cook answered: "I think that there is sufficient law in the District to justify his trial here. In brief, I believe that there is no insuperable objection to his indictment, trial, conviction and hanging here at the utmost within a few weeks. There has been entirely too much talk and too many publications on this subject. Had the grand jury not been adjourned Guiteau might have by this time been indicted. Whether he can be tried and convicted in the District can only be definitely and finally determined by pursuing the regular steps required you think of the question as to trying Guiteau termined by pursuing the regular steps required by the law and bringing the question to the at-tention of the court. This question can only be raised by a plea to the jurisdiction of the court; and if it should be decided that Guiteau cannot be tried in this District in the court. and if it should be decided that Guiteau cannot be tried in this District, it will be time enough to consider whether he can be removed to New Jersey and tried under the law there. The county presecutor of the pleas has decided to file an indictment against Guiteau as a precautionary measure, they say, "so that if the Washington authorities deem it best to have the trial in New Jersey there shall be no gap left for the escape of Guiteau by legal quibbles under the law of the District of Co-

A Girl Brutally Outraged. YOUNG WHITE MAN CHARGED WITH THE OFFENCE, This afternoon, in the Police Court, a young white man, named Jno. Stafford, about 22 years old, was put on trial for rape. His face and neck were completely covered with scratches. A young white woman, named Lizzle Burk, testified that she lives on the 7th street road, near Grant avenue, and this young man, who she has been acquainted with for some time, came to her house yesterday morning and made some inquiries about a friend and then left, and came back about 11 o'clock, while she was alone, lying on the bed sick, and caught her by the throat, and despite her struggling and scratching his face, he accomplished his purpose. A colored girl stated that she lives next door to Mrs. Burk, and heard Mrs. Burk call for help, and attempted to go to her assistance, but found that there was a lot of furniture piled against the door and could not get in. There was no testimony for the defence except the statement of the defendant, and the case was sent to the grand jury under $500 bonds, in default of which he was committed.

Death of a Former Washingtonian in Cali-

Mr. Gideon Brooke, formerly a prominent and respected resident of Washington, died at San Francisco on the 18th ult , in the 62d year of his age. Mr. Brooke for several years was associated with Mr. Jos. Shillington, in the book and stationery lusiness, conducting a store at the corner of 15th street and Pennsylvania avenue, while Mr. Shillington was in his present quarters. When the California gold fever broke out in 1849 Mr. Brooke, in company with seventy others, (most of whom were young men of this city) under Captain Bruff, left for the Pacific city) under Captain Bruff, left for the Pacific coast, traveling overland and enduring many hardships, from which several of the party died on the way. The journey occapied eight months. In 1863 he left California for Arizona, then attracting the attention of the country on account of its natural wealth. There he became a great favorite with the people and was elected to several important state offices. Last May, under the advice of his physician, he went to the Bartthe advice of his physician, he went to the Bart-lett Springs, near Oakland, Cal., but did not profit by the change. He determined to return, but had only gotten as far as San Francisco. when his condition became very critical and demanded an immediate rest. After lingering for some time he died, as stated above, of Bright's disease. Mr. Brooke, it is said, had accumulated the state of the state o lated a good deal of property, which he leaves to his brother's family, living near Benning's Station, Prince George's county, Maryland, and to his sister in Baltimore. He was a most genial gentleman, though inclined to be reserved and quiet, and had hosts of friends in this, his native city.

HE IS NOT AFRAID OF THE LAW, BUT DOES NOT

WANT A SPEEDY TRIAL. Guiteau is still in a funk, but says he is not afraid of the law, for that will protect him, and through the law, he says, he is not afraid of being hung. He is not anxious for a speedy trial, however, and would rather that the case would not be called for trial until he can walk this morning debtor at the clearing house $1,751,328.18, that is to say, the ordinary payments at the sub-treasury here yesterday together with the extraordinary one for the $2,000,000 of bonds bought, then exceeded the receipts by the sum of $1,751,328.18. State bonds are dull and steady. Railroad bonds are generally lower, the decline ranging from \( \frac{1}{3} \) allowedge per cent. The market for foreign exchange continues heavy, but rather dull.

An Interesting Discovery in the Malley Trial.

Would not be called for trial until he can walk up Pennsylvania avenue to the court house to be tried without molestation. He seems somewhat disappointed at not receiving a prompt reply from his brother-in-law, Scoville, and regrets that what he said about did, as, he says, it placed Mr. S. in a false position. He intends to write to Mr. S. fully as to the case and has no doubt but that he could induce him to take charge of the case for him.

District Government Affairs.

The estimate of expenses of the office of the Attorney of the District of Columbia for the next fiscal year has been presented to the Commissioners, and amounts to $10,200.

The District Commissioners have disapproved the request for the sprinkling of 7th street southeast, between Pennsylvania avenue and M street, at stated times street, at stated times. In reply to a request that New York avenue between North Capitol and 7th streets west, be concreted or paved with Belgian blocks, the Commissioners state that it will not be possible to pave this street until the wood pave-ments shall have been replaced.

The Commissioners have informed an inter-ested party who calls attention to the condition of 18th street, between New Hampshire avenue and T street, that the estimate for improvement is made only for grading, and that the work of laying sidewalks and completing the roadway cannot be done.

The inspector of buildings has recommended to the Commissioners the appointment of a superintendent or foreman to oversee the erection of the two new school buildings in course of construction in the 2d division. Under the order issued by the District Com-missioners of February 6th, 1880, Mr. William O. Roome, chief of special assessment division, has taken up the revision of alley assessments, and will proceed to find the true amounts to be charged up against each lot and subdivision. He has to-day completed the revision of the assessments for work done on alleys in squares 180, 387 and 194.

ONPLAINING COLORED PEOPLE.

There is much dissatisfaction among the colored people living in the northwestern portion of the city at the refusal of the Commissioners to give them permits to hold entertainments in King's hall, on 10th street northwest. This has been done on the complaints lodged with the Commissioners by citizens residing in the vicinity of that hall. The colored people say there have never been any arrests made there by the police for infractions of any law or city ordinance. They also complain that no such refusal has been made to those who control Liberty hall, opposite. 387 and 194.
